This month the Society is proud to announce a tour of WITF TV's Public Media Center in Harrisburg, PA. WITF's educational tour program offers a dynamic, one-of-a-kind learning experience. It will introduce you to this state-of-the-art multimedia facility through interactive presentations, multiple observation areas, lively audiovisuals, and even hands-on opportunities. This is an exciting to see how a modern television studio operates, as well as the unique chance to revisit one of our past tours. The Society toured this facility a few years ago while it was under construction. The tour will be given by Ron Kain, WITF's Senior Vice President/Chief Technology Officer. Visitor parking is available to the right after entering the parking lot off of Keckler Rd. If visitor spaces are filled, please use the adjacent staff parking lot.

ESP News

National Engineers Week: Each year, the Society sets up a display in the Colonial Park Mall during Engineers Week (February 17-23, 2008). The displays from various organizations highlight engineering ideas, projects, etc., and the Society is requesting pictures and projects for our display. Contact any Board member with your submissions.

Upcoming Events: Please note that the Central Pennsylvania Engineers Week Celebration Banquet is being held on February 21, 2008. See the attached flyer and sign-up form for information. Additional Engineers Week information can also be found at www.cpewc.org.

Volunteers: The Central Pennsylvania Engineers Week Council is seeking volunteers to help with the following activities:

Engineers Week Display: Volunteers are needed to work information tables set up at Whitaker Science Center in Harrisburg from February 16-18. Volunteers would help with activities (such as model bridge and tower demonstrations) and answer simple engineering questions from students that stop by.

Technology Student Association: The Region 3 Conference will be held on February 9 at Cedar Cliff High School. Judges are needed in areas such as communications, construction, drafting, problem solving, computers, and electronics. TSA prepares students to meet the challenges of the future by studying the technical world around them.
